AUBURN SOCCER TEAM DEFEATS MARION ELEVEN

Campus, March 1.—On the campus this afternoon the Auburn soccer team defeated the squad from the Marion Institute by the score of 3-1. The game was well played throughout, and at times it seemed as if the visitors were going to be able to do more scoring; but Major, as goal keeper, and Howe at full, often booted the ball back out of danger and stopped many well directed shots at the goal, and thereby held the visitors to one goal, which was made by the ball being kicked by an Auburn man, striking an opponent, and bounding over the Marion goal.

Although the Auburn team was not the varsity complete, the Marion squad showed up very well indeed, considering the fact that this was their first game. At times they were very successful in carrying the ball down to their own goal, but were unable to put it over the line.

With this game Auburn closes its soccer season. Manager Pitts has tried every way possible to secure a game with the Atlanta squad, but was unable to get a date suitable for both teams. The team this year has only played two games; and has given a very good account of itself on both occasions, holding the All-Star team of Birmingham to a close score, and defeating the Marion aggregation.

The Stars of the Game.

For Auburn the work of Newell, at center forward, was probably the best. Kirk scored two of the three goals with very pretty shots and was one of the main factors in advancing the ball. Capt. Arnold, at left forward, also played a very good game and was successful in scoring one of the goals. Sparkman and Howe, at fullbacks, played very good games and many times in the progress of the game booted the ball well out of danger. Harris, at left forward played a good fast game, and Major, as goal tender, did some very effective work.

For the visitors the work of Hairston, at full, was the best. He was the greatest obstacle that Auburn met in trying to shoot goals; he played a fast good game, and many times was able to boot the ball to the center of the field out of danger. Gresham, at left forward, played well; he was in very near all of the pass work and put up a fast game until his removal from the game on account of a fractured knee. "Country" Moore, at center forward, was equal to every occasion and played in old time form. His passes were accurate and his defensive work good. Houze and Stone showed up well. Gwathmy, at left forward, played a good, consistent game.

In the last half, McCombs, Middlebrooks, and Duggar were substituted for Harris, Despland and Hurt respectively. These men, though small and light, were very fast and showed up well.

For Marion, Gwathmy was substituted for Gresham in the last half.

BASEBALL BEE BUZZING.

On the campus for the past two weeks Coach Donahue has been meeting his baseball squad and putting them through the usual early season practice. The men have all been showing up unusually well and Auburn has bright prospects for a successful season this year. As twirlers, there is Davis who is expected to take a place among the leading pitchers of the S. I. A. A., and his supporters are counting on him having an unusually bright year. Davenport, though All-Southern first baseman last year, can take his turn in the box and pitch like an old head. Among the new recruits are Dryver, Dorough, Locke, Wynne and Savage, who have shown that they have the steam and with a little coaching will prove valuable men. As catchers, Williams, who played in great form the whole of last year will be seen again at his position behind the bat. Boykin, who has served faithfully on the scrub team for two years is out again and will in all probability be seen with the varsity this year. Perry is also out for the backstop position and is showing up well. At first, there is Davenport, Louisell, South, Anderson and Thigpen, all good men who are putting up first class ball from that position. At second base, Burks, Winn, Dryver and Roberts are all working well and it will be a warm race for the key stone bag. At short stop, Moulton, Middleton and Sparkman are all playing in great style and have proven that this position will be well cared for. At third base, Benson, Howard, Rabb and Pollard are working out the kinks and rapidly getting into mid-season form. For the out-field there is a world of good material from which to select a trio of first class fielders: Major, Bonner, Worrill, Grayden, Abbott, Harris and many others who are doing well.

Practice every evening at four o'clock, on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Everybody be on time.

JUNIOR FOOTBALL TEAM ENTERTAINED BY MISS CARY

Miss Phoebe Cary, sponsor for the Junior football team, entertained at her home on North College Street Saturday night in celebration of the Juniors' hard fought victory on the afternoon of the twenty-second. The team, substitutes, coaches and quite a few of Auburn's attractive younger set were the recipients of Miss Cary's charming hospitality. Original and amusing games, intermingled with music and readings by Miss Louise Patrick of Marion, caused the hours to pass all too quickly. An ice course, carrying out the Junior colors, was served. Each guest carried away, as a souvenir of the delightful evening, an exquisite little hand painted football, the work of the hostess.

Bishop Lambuth Addresses Students

Last Thursday afternoon drill was dispensed with and the students adjourned to Langdon Hall where they were entertained for an hour with thrilling and amusing stories of African adventure.

Bishop Lambuth, who addressed the students, is a singularly interesting "celebrity." He was born in China, has lived in Japan, traveled through Africa and is now a Bishop in the Southern Methodist Church, and has charge of the department of Foreign Missions.

He told of his recent visit to the Congo Free State, a vast country having an area of a million square miles and drained by the Congo river, a stream seven miles wide at the mouth, whose water is so laden with organic matter that it is color of port wine. The forests in this country were so dense and of such vastness that they traveled for days beneath trees where not sufficient light penetrated to permit one to read. There are no roads except animal trails through these forests and one simply follows his general direction.

Bishop Lambuth followed the route of Stanley and visited the death place of Livingstone in the "Death Zone" where every third white man dies. This country is largely unknown and the best maps of it are those furnished by the Missionaries. The wild beasts hinder development as the elephants butt the trains off the track, pull up telegraph poles, and destroy bridges and stockades. Leopards and other beasts of prey devour the natives and sometimes wipe out whole villages.

One of the most interesting things described by Bishop Lambuth was the telegraph drum. This is made of a hollow log and can be heard for ten miles along the river or three miles through the forest. The natives convey messages with it by means of a secret code which no white man has ever learned. So proficient are they that they telegraphed news of Bishop Lambuth's approach a distance of 130 miles ahead in less than one hour's time.

Bishop Lambuth told many other interesting facts about the people and the country and wound up by describing the mission he was establishing there. Then he showed the students a battle-axe which had beheaded over 300 captives. All who had the good fortune to hear him enjoyed the treat immensely.

MERCER-AUBURN GAME.

Macon, March 1.—In the fastest and most exciting game on the local court this year the Mercerites defeated the Auburn team last night by the score of 36 to 19. In early January, Auburn defeated Mercer 33 to 31, and since that time Mercer has been looking forward to the return game in Macon. The spirit of the student body was the best that has been exhibited this year, and it would have been hard for the Baptists to lose their last game of the season with the spirit that was shown. From the time Coach Stroud blew his whistle until the time was called at the end of the second half the game was fast and furious. Mercer started things with a rush and completely outclassed the Alabama boys for a time, the score at the end of the first half being 20 to 6. In the second half Auburn came back strong and did some good playing, but Mercer's lead was most too much to overcome. In the second half, Mercer scored 16 points and Auburn ran up 13. It would be hard to pick the star player for Mercer on account of the fact that they all played as one man; but, perhaps, Westmoreland was more prominent than any other on his team. Scarbrough and Noble, the Auburn forwards, were in the game all the time, and threw some very difficult goals. A large crowd witnessed the game.

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA DEFEATS AUBURN.

Auburn, Ala., March 1.—Tonight on the local gymnasium floor the basketball squad of Auburn was defeated by the fast husky five of the University of Georgia by the score of 67-21.

The game was fast and snappy and although the score was one-sided, the interest was always keen and many spectacular plays were pulled off in the course of the battle. The game was very rough indeed and double fouls were frequent, especially in the second half, but each and every man on the floor conducted himself as a true sportsman and none of the rough playing was turned into "dirty work."

The visitors were in the very best physical condition possible, and their pass work and ability to locate the basket was excellent. They closed a very remarkable season tonight, having dropped only one game during the season and having defeated every college team played, and they have met most of the leading colleges of the south.

With such a team Auburn was outclassed—they fought hard and did their best, which is all that could be expected, but they were greatly outweighed and up against a squad of championship class.

With this game Auburn also closes her season, which has, under the circumstances, been a fairly successful one, having played fourteen games, winning six and losing eight. Although our team has not carried off the honor of the southern basketball court this year, as we did on the gridiron, they have all nevertheless, done their best for the Orange and Blue. They have fought at all times in the same determination and spirit that characterizes all of the teams from Auburn; and all Auburn is behind every one of its teams, be it in victory or defeat. And here's to the men who have fought for the Orange and Blue this basketball season of 1912-13. They are: Scarbrough, Worrill, Noble, Lacey, Major, Clements, D. Cook, F. Cook, Duncan, Taylor, Steed, Inge, Sparkman and Wilmore.

Stars of the Game.

In the game tonight the work of Scarbrough, at forward, was the best for the Auburn five. He was in the game at all times and his defensive work was a great factor in keeping the visitors' score down. Scarbrough has played his four years in basketball at Auburn and his place will be a hard one to fill next season. Clements, at forward, also did some very good work, and made some very spectacular shots. Worrill showed up well at center.

For the visitors the work of Brand, at center, was probably the best. He scored twenty-three of Georgia's points and allowed his opponents to shoot only one goal. The work of Peacock and Johnson at forwards was excellent; these two men seemed to be able to find the basket from almost any part of the floor, and made some very spectacular goals. Carter and Liddell, at guards, played wonderful defensive games and allowed very few goals to be scored against them. The line-up:

Auburn:	Position	Points
Scarbrough	Forward	6
Noble	Forward	3
Clements	Forward	5
Duncan	Forward	1
Worrill	Center	2
Major	Guard	2
Lacey	Guard	0
F. Cook	Guard	2

JUDSON GLEE CLUB.

On Tuesday and Wednesday nights, February 25-26, Auburn students and citizens enjoyed a treat which featured as one of the social events of the year. The Judson Glee Club was the appreciable attraction and the school is greatly indebted to the fair Marionites because of their entertainments. On Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Auburn Glee Club, the Judson girls did themselves justice as a clever and well-trained Glee Club. The program was well arranged with popular selections and many good quartet numbers. Miss Blake and Miss Scott featured in solos, accompanied by the club. "The Criss Cross Baby," sung by the double quartet and "All Kinds of Women" by the single quartet were greatly enjoyed; while "The Little Pig Went to Market," by Miss Blake was the crowning point of the night. The closing number, "Judson" was one typical of Glee Club type, and was sung with that spirit gained through love of school and pride in demonstrating.

On Monday night, "A Dress Rehearsal" was presented which was a crowning success to the club's stay in Auburn. Previous to the grand operetta, a special program was given which consisted of many good hits greatly appreciated by the audience. Miss Blake with her "Poor Little Lamb" and "What do You Think of That?" won a place in the students' hearts for good. "The Cat He Kissed" and a parody on "When the Cho Cho Leaves for Ala." were two good numbers by the Glee Club. Misses Shealey and Herlong sang "Nearest and Dearest," and the "Modern College Girl" was again given by the quartet.

In the first scene of "The Dress Rehearsal" we are introduced to the school room of Grove House Academy, of which Miss Jones is the lady principal, and Mille. Epinard is the French teacher. A charade is proposed by the girls which is to be a Shakespearian interpretation, but becomes a burlesque imitation of "Cinderella." Mrs. Jarvey, a retired actress, is secured to train the girls in their parts. Miss Pinchbeck, a visitor, sees Cinderella rehearsing and gains an impression of ill treatment and goes for assistance to free the poor girl. The play progresses with many absurd interruptions by Sara Ann, who is always eating, and by Sophronisa Spivens, the romantic novel reader. Finally, Miss Pinchbeck returns to arrest the principal, but everything is explained and the Dress Rehearsal turns out a success.

The Glee Club is to be congratulated on its presentation of the comic operetta. Miss Hudmon as "Cinderella," Miss Dickinson as the principal, and Miss Blake as "Mrs. Jarvey," sang and handled their parts well; while Miss Watson's seemingly large appetite for everything, appealed to the college boys greatly. Many pretty choruses and solo parts were given, and each was a treat by itself.

This is not the first time that

AUBURN, ALA., MARCH 8, 1913

The editors have decided to suspend publication of the Orange and Blue during the next two weeks on account of the term examinations. In doing this we believe that we are acting for the best interests of both ourselves and the student body. From our own viewpoint we admit that while there is a great deal of pleasure connected with writing for our paper and that we get a lot of satisfaction out of publishing the "Orange and Blue," still it consumes some time to get it up each week, and as we are here at Auburn primarily to study, we feel that at this critical time we should devote every possible minute to our work. If we were among those few brilliant students who always have their work done ahead of time and regard examinations as a sort of vacation, it would be different, but, unfortunately, we are just the ordinary kind who are always behind.

From the standpoint of the students, we feel that the majority of them need to work very hard during the next two weeks in order to make a fair showing. The number of fours made on the mid-term exams was very large and the men have many low marks to pull up to a pass. Not only is this true, but the work since mid-term has been largely interrupted by outside amusements which take the student's mind from his books. In view of this fact we feel that during the exams the students won't have time to read the Orange and Blue, or any thing else except text books. Anyway, we hope that every man will get busy and apply himself and pass up every thing this time. Here's luck to you all.

Have you signed up for that Glomerata yet? If not, do so at once, in order that the Board of Editors can know how many to order. The price is only three dollars, and the book will be a beautiful memento of some of the happiest days of your life and will gladden your heart in future years with the pleasant memories of your Alma Mater. Not only will it be a source of infinite pleasure and satisfaction to you, but it will make one of the most appropriate and handsome remembrances that you could possibly give to any one who is interested in you and your college. It will show them exactly what your college life is. Your family will find it a source of constant pleasure, your chum will think it bully, your best girl will love it as a rare treasure. Whatever your class may be, it has something of interest to you, so order now!

STEAM LABORATORY.

The large room in the left wing of the Engineering building set aside for a steam laboratory is fast being equipped. The laboratory will have steam and gas engines for use in making tests of efficiency, economy, etc. Two engines of special interest are the Metz and Weiss, and a new "Otto."

The Metz and Weiss gas engine is designed to use kerosene and the heavier oils. The oil being pumped into a cylinder by a small pump, the stroke of which is hardly perceptible. The compression is high and the heat generated by this is used to ignite the gases given up by the evaporation of the oil. This feature of course does away with the ignition apparatus. This is same principle as the Diesel oil engine, which uses a compression of 550 lbs per square inch. The engine has been fully equipped with indicator attachments and a prong brake; preliminary to thesis work being taken up by some of the members of the mechanical class.

The new "Otto" engine should be an interest to all engineering students as it involves all of the new principles of design. This engine runs on much lower compression than the Metz, and Weiss and gets its ignition from a Bosch high tension magneto. The release of the compression by means of a cam motion at the beginning of the stroke is of special interest. This engine has not been set up yet but will be running in the next few days.

CLASS BASKETBALL.

The class basketball season has begun with a rush and all of the classes have had quite a number of men out working hard endeavoring to secure a position on their respective teams.

The Freshmen and Sophomores practice every evening; the Seniors at night from seven to eight o'clock and the Juniors from eight to nine. Your team needs your help so get out and help toward the championship.

The Seniors meet the Freshmen Friday night.

DR. WEATHERFORD TO VISIT AUBURN.

It has been definitely learned that Auburn is to have a visit some time in March from Dr. W. D. Weatherford, the International Association Secretary for the South.

Dr. Weatherford is a native of the "Lone Star State" and a graduate from the university there. After his graduation he went to Vanderbilt and took his doctor's degree, serving as gymnastic director for the university at the same time.

For the past twelve years he has been at the head of the Student Association work in the south. Under his direction the work has developed into the greatest force for righteousness in southern college life and college men in the south and other sections have come to look to him for leadership and inspiration.

Dr. Weatherford is the author of two books on the negro problem, which have the endorsement of social workers north and south who are working for the betterment of the race, and which are being used by hundreds of southern college men as texts in study groups. His book entitled "Introducing Men to Jesus Christ" is also proving very acceptable to college men and is being used extensively in the south and in the universities of the middle west.

For the last eight months Dr. Weatherford has been on an extensive trip visiting the colleges and mission stations in Italy, Egypt, Palestine and the Far East. While in China he had opportunity to observe enormous changes that are rapidly taking place there, and spoke on the average of twice a day to large audiences of Chinese students, many of whom were often turned away because the halls were full.

Dr. Weatherford has refused many other invitations in order to visit Auburn. It is an honor to the institution and to the student body to have him come and Auburn should give him a warm reception.

Peter Koch, '12, who has been studying the tobacco industry in Kentucky and North Carolina, will take up this year his work as agricultural expert of the government of the South African republic.
